

2012 Sauvignon Blanc

Russian River Valley, Sonoma County

Vineyard Profile

Crinella Marino Vineyard, Russian River Valley

With a long, cool growing season, the cool climate of the Russian River Valley keeps wines crisp while allowing the natural character of the climate to shine through. The picturesque Crinella Marino vineyard is located in one of the warmer areas of the Russian River Valley and experiences less rain and weather challenges than many other sites in the region.

The grapes offer a combination of a sophisticated Sancerre of the Loire Valley and the grassier New Zealand selections. This is a California wine for a Sauvignon Blanc enthusiast.

Winemaker Notes

Immediately bright and lively on the nose, this Sauvignon Blanc bursts with citrus – Meyer lemon, grapefruit and kefir lime – which is supported by undertones of spring grass and wet rock. The palate mirrors the aromatics; ripe, zesty citrus, dried hay, tarragon and green plum are balanced by a backbone of clean, refreshing acidity.
